Shelton Adds Officer to Force

Shelton resident 23-year-old Daniel Judkins has become the 54th police officer in Shelton. Two other recruits are currently attending the police academy in Bridgeport and are expected to join the force later this summer. These appointments are backfilling recent retirements. Two more recruits are expected to enter the academy next month which would bring the total number of officers to 58.

Judkins is a 2003 graduate of Shelton High School and then entered the Army Reserve. Judkins currently works the evening shift in the patrol division. He previously worked at Piccolo's Deli on River Road, Shelton.
